Ski train hits car at crossing

By MICHAEL DANIELS

"I think I can, I think I can, I think I can," thought a Yarmouth man Friday night.

But he couldn't. Ignoring loud blasts from the train whistle, David White attempted to race his car through a crossing ahead of the oncoming Sunday River Silver Bullet Express.

He didn't make it. The ski train caught White's Ford Bronco in the crossing, badly smashing the passenger side and rear of the vehicle.

Fortunately, the train had already been slowing for an upcoming stop, and White escaped without injury.

Neither were any of the train crew or passengers injured. Most of the passengers didn't even know it had happened, said Tom Richardson, Sunday River VP of finance and administration.

After a half hour delay, the train pulled out onto the new Yarmouth road, which was only a half mile long.

White didn't make it to his home in Yarmouth, he was arrested by the Yarmouth Police and charged with operating under the influence.

Group targets indirect river pollution

By ALISON STOSIO

Construction, dumping, farming, and forestry-related activities are now the primary causes of pollution in the Androscoggin River watershed in the Bethel area, according to the Androscoggin Pollution Prevention Team.

The team, which is part of the Androscoggin Watershed Pollution Prevention Project, is working to identify and eliminate pollution sources.

Using the Department of Environmental Protection's guidebook, "Your Maine Source," the team compiled a list of non-point pollution sources, which are not directly discharged into the river and its tributaries.

The list, presented at a meeting last week, included erosion and runoff from construction sites and forest and farming operations, as well as wood waste from old sawmills, heavy metals from old dumpsites, tire dumps, and junked cars.

Flakes finally fly; cold bites deep

By WENDY HANSCOM

Forget about early spring. The first big snowstorm of the season dumped 14-plus inches on the Bethel area Saturday, and draped a thick blanket of Arctic air.

Thermometers dipped to at least 12 below locally Tuesday evening, and more cold weather is in tap for the rest of this week, but no more snowflakes are in the immediate forecast, according to the National Weather Service in Portland.

Saturday's storm dumped 21 to 25 inches of new snow on Sunday River Ski Resort's summit, according to a resort official.

Officials at the weather service report similar accumulations elsewhere in the region. Six-in warnings were posted early Saturday. An Oxford County Sheriff's Office dispatcher said most people seemed to have heeded the warnings and stayed off the roads. There were just a few accidents county-wide, the dispatcher said.

Before the storm hit, people who were worried about bad roads or extended power outage, prudently stocked up on supplies.

"Friday at about 2 p.m. it started to take off, and it lasted all evening," said Rod Royer, Bethel Foodliner manager. "Saturday morning was completely chaotic until about 2 p.m. Sunday was dead, because everybody made plans to stay in."

"Batteries, flashlights and candles, all the emergency stuff for a storm, we're pretty much out of," Royer said.

Across the street at Brooks Bros., business was also lull as customers snapped up candles, lamp oil and shovels.

People also prepared to be penned up by renting movies, according to video store owner Karen Wight. Both of Wight's Bethel stores rented more than the average number of tapes Saturday, she said.

High winds accompanying the storm didn't succeed in knocking out local electrical power.

But while the snow was fresh and deep on all of Sunday River's trails Sunday morning, many of those trails were inaccessible to the skiers who braved the blizzard to show up -- because high winds had forced the resort to close several of its lifts.

Telstar pipes burst

By WENDY HANSCOM

Pipes burst Monday at the Telstar complex, causing extensive water damage and forcing the cancellation of two days of high- and middle-school classes.

A heating system failure sometime Sunday is being blamed for water and steam damage to five classrooms. Pipes burst in six to eight other rooms, but no water damage resulted.

A damage estimate wasn't available Tuesday. Some ceiling and floor tiles will need replacing, according to Superintendent Ron Jenkins, and several typewriters and computers in the business education room were damaged by water and steam.

The pipes began leaking shortly after students arrived for classes Monday. High and middle schools students were sent home for the day, Jenkins said.

It took SAD44 personnel and others more

Local legislators' campaign donors are listed

By STEVEN STYCOS

Special to the Bethel Citizen

With the legislature in session, lobbyists are buttonholing legislators on the third floor of the state house about bills. Their amiable talking and joking is just one way they influence which bills pass and which die quietly in committee.

Lobbyists have power because they have information. Bank lobbyists, for example, understand banking law far better than most legislators. So legislators, with no personal staff, rely on lobbyists for information.

Campaign contributions are another key source of lobbyists' power. Major lobbying groups, like the doctor's lobby, the Maine Medical Association, and the business lobby, the Maine Chamber of Commerce, contribute thousands of dollars to legislative candidates.

Lobby groups hand out contributions carefully. They interview candidates, examine their voting records and ask them to complete questionnaires. Only when they are confident a candidate agrees with their views, do they write a check. And by paying for campaign literature and newspaper and radio ads, those checks can decide a close election.

Contributions do not necessarily "buy" a legislator's votes, but they are indicators of their views. A state representative who received $400 from Boise Cascade is unlikely to lead the fight to repeal tax breaks for the paper industry. And like all gifts, contributions make a bond between the giver and the receiver that can be helpful when key legislation is being considered.

Groups which represent businesses and professionals make the most contributions. A handful of Maine unions also contribute. Lobby groups generally support incumbents because they have proven records, are likely to win reelection and have more influence in Augusta than freshmen legislators.

The Citizen examined the area legislators' 1994 campaign finance reports. All candidates are required to report their expenses and contributions greater than $50. Not surprisingly, our review shows that running for state Representative is much cheaper than running for state

AND NOW IT'S 538 AND COUNTING. Employees of P.H. Chadbourne Co. have racked up an impressive record of 538 (as of Tuesday) work days without a lost-time accident -- either in the mill or in the woods. Don Feeney, company safety director, gave much of the credit for the accomplishment to increased safety awareness and education, especially regarding back injuries. In recognition of the new record (the old record was 285 days) the company's 90 employees were given commemorative sweatshirts and caps.

Low-level overflight plan now on hold

By ALAN MORSE

An official at the Federal Aviation Administration revealed Monday that his agency will put proposed low-level flights for Western Maine on hold.

The 104th Fighter Group of the Massachusetts Air National Guard had requested changes in rules for military training flights operating in the Condon Military Operating Area.

The training zone covers an area marked at its corners by Bethel, the Canadian border, Greenville and Wilton.

The Guard had requested the operating ceiling in the area be reduced from 7,000 to 300 feet to enable low-level training in the terrain-hugging F-16 bomber and drop-zone practice in larger aircraft.

A lengthy review process, which included hearings on the environmental impact of the proposed changes, was undertaken by the Guard. The proposal drew fire from residents of the area already tired by noise from training flights.

Last October, the FAA held hearings in Rangeley and Rumford to hear the reactions of private and commercial pilots to the proposition. Although most pilots supported the need for training, they voiced a strong concern for the safety of nonmilitary aircraft operating in the zone.

The FAA promised a decision on the proposal in mid-January. The announcement was delayed several times, but finally scheduled for last week.

On Monday, Bill Maloney, manager of the System Management Branch of the FAA in Burlington, Mass., revealed that the release of rules changes would be delayed indefinitely at the request of the Air

PAID TO PLAY IN THE WOODS

To the Editor:

Although a good memory is an asset, it sometimes causes pain. I remember very vividly the 30's depression. We were poor dirt farmers after losing all our animals through disease. There were six of us, but because of pride, my father refused to walk a mere mile to FDR's CCC camps to join the hundreds of able men getting paid to just sit around the fire. (I remember them well.)

My memory was jogged when I saw your picture of three girls carrying a log, captioned 'Young AmeriCorp.' After reading Wendy Hanscom's article, I decided to drive to Bog Brook the next morning. Is there a depression going on?

I met with the director, Brian Yeaton, a courteous young man, and sat down to hear about the program I'm paying for. They have 32 kids costing over $20,000 per year, plus Brian and seven supervisors who he said make more money.

Part of their job, I was told, is to increase all of our wildlife. Now I am really interested and inquired as to how they do that. "We clean out the brush and dead wood to help the smaller animals and nesting birds." Gee, I thought, I have been hunting in the wrong places.

And the deer? "We provide more food by clearing the forest allowing new growth. They can't eat the pine trees, you know. There used to be more forest fires years ago to help them."

That darn Smokey the Bear! And those Indians were certainly careless with their fires.

What do you do when the snow is three feet deep? "We use snowshoes and at times we stay in and sharpen our chainsaws and axes, waiting for spring break." I could picture an 18-year-old doing just that.

I left this nice fellow and decided to visit your reporter who investigated the AmeriCorp program.

Brian had also told me that they make trails through the wilderness for recreation. I did not want to embarrass him by asking how all the animals must really thrive on seeing more and more people and snowmobiles in their improved woodland.

Wendy was very gracious. I found that she is very intelligent, as probably the kids are. At camp, except she is gainfully employed. After explaining some of my concerns she encouraged me to write. Normally I would just stay in my own little bubble thinking that we have over 25,000 in our AmeriCorp getting paid for this.

A couple of weeks ago, the Times, refuting the GOP mandate on less regulation and spending, claimed that Clinton had a "deeper" answer to steering public and private spending toward productivity-enhancing investment, training and education. In a recent speech to the students at Colby College, our Mr. Clinton stated: "We ought to just give out the money." Programs and dollars mean votes!

FKR's member, John Keynes, the British economist wrote in 1933, "How much government spending on public works" would mean, not only to the material progress of the U.S., and the whole world, but in respect to men's minds, through a restoration of their faith in the wisdom and power of government."

It is possible that John F. Kennedy would be left to pull the wagon.

NEW AGE BELIEFS UNMASKED

To the Editor:

After reading the article on "Indian Beliefs" in your Jan. 25 issue, I felt a great urgency to share some basic truths of what "New Age" is all about.

1. An Impersonal, Finite God: New Age, in considering God to be the sum of human experience, have discovered the truth of God for a human experience and have created a human rather than the Creator (Genesis 1:26).

2. Selfishness: God is an individual person who is benevolent, but who is selfish, omniscient, omnipotent, and the ability to change. He is not a God of love and compassion, but a God of power.

3. The Human Mind: New Age believes that the mind is the seat of the universe and that the mind is the seat of the universe.

4. The Human Mind: New Age believes that the mind is the seat of the universe and that the mind is the seat of the universe.

5. The Human Mind: New Age believes that the mind is the seat of the universe and that the mind is the seat of the universe.

6. The Human Mind: New Age believes that the mind is the seat of the universe and that the mind is the seat of the universe.

7. The Human Mind: New Age believes that the mind is the seat of the universe and that the mind is the seat of the universe.

8. The Human Mind: New Age believes that the mind is the seat of the universe and that the mind is the seat of the universe.

STUDYING THE FIRST AMERICANS

To the Editor:

In regards to Native American Indian education in our schools, it seems to me that a lot of complaints and concerns by the parents is laid heavy on the educators of our children. Parents, why don't you participate with these educators? Your concerns could be cared for at the moment the event is happening, and if you wish to remove your child, then do so! But don't cheat the children that are eager to learn the truth about the first Americans. Hopefully, parents are aware it takes years of constant training for a child to learn all there is about religions, much less learn how to practice it all in a few weeks.

Parents should be proud that there is a teacher that teaches these young minds to be open, to express, to understand all our relations. From what I have observed, our children of the future are being taught from T.V. shows such as "The Simpsons" and "The Power Rangers."

It's time to see the light parents, learn and have the willingness to understand that all children need all avenues of life and education. If you took time to do some research on the Native Americans, and your own ancestors you might find you, too, are a descendant of our first Americans.

TERM LIMITS ARE SIMPLISTIC AND WRONG

To the Editor:

The issue of term limits has been and continues to be a popular cause. Members of both political parties have supported it, but the more rabid elements of the Republican party have been particularly strident in their devotion to the cause. Frustrated by the long Democratic domination of Congress and state legislatures, it seemed a natural way to end Democratic hegemony. Generally, opposition to the term limits crusade has not been strong or well-financed.

The U.S. Supreme Court is expected to rule later this year on state-imposed term limits for U.S. senators and representatives. In the meantime, the Republican-controlled Congress as party of the "Contract" has promised a vote on this issue during the first 100 days of the current session.

As a longtime opponent of term limits, I am pleased to see very strong Republican conservatives heading the Judiciary committees in both houses of Congress who are firmly opposed to limits. Senator Orrin Hatch of Utah heads up Judiciary in the Senate; Rep. Henry Hyde of Illinois does the same in the House. Both oppose limits as a matter of principle.

Term limits are really not necessary since turnover in Congress is so high without them, and it is essential that some institutional memory be preserved. Term limits also tend to increase the power of executive branch bureaucrats, professional Capitol Hill staffers and those on the legislative level as well, and the ever-present lobbyists. None of these groups are elected by anyone.

Term limits strike right at the heart of our democracy -- by preventing voters from freely choosing those they wish to represent them. Term limits deprecates the value of experience and are blind to the issue of merit. In other professions, experience and competency are essential to success.

The Articles of Confederation contained term limits, but the framers of the Constitution in 1787 did not include them. We do not need them now over 200 years later. It is a simplistic and indiscriminate way of changing things. No judgment, or for that matter, brains are required. As David Broder has pointed out, term limits are really contrary to the conservative values of freedom, responsibility, tradition and respect for experience.

Since only politicians would be limited, I do favor limiting the terms of Congressional and legislative officers and the rotation of committee chairmanships. I also favor campaign reform limiting the amount of money that can be spent in elections.

I am opposed to all limits that restrict a voter's option to vote for anyone of his or her choice. That is why I believe restrictions on governors and the presidency should be eliminated. I can only hope that eventually the folly of term limits (like Prohibition) will be clear to more voters and one day all restrictions will be repealed.

The lesson of last fall's elections is clear. Voters will make changes when persuaded they are necessary without resorting to arbitrary limits. To those of us dedicated to the greatest freedom of choice, nothing could be more evident.

ALL WELCOMED TO TRAILS MEETING

To the Editor:

The Mahoosuc Land Trust has been facilitating a number of meetings among organizations and individuals interested in recreational trails and greenways. The coalition, consisting of representatives of: conservation, business, hiking, snowmobile, jeep, all-terrain vehicle, downhill and cross country skiing groups, has been discussing common interests and concerns and compiling an inventory of existing trails and public ways.

I would like to invite all interested citizens, and especially landowners, to our next meeting: a forum on trails/greenways, Wednesday, Feb. 8, 1 to 3 p.m., at the Bethel Inn Conference Center.

One of the major goals of this forum is to involve all interested landowners in the continuing planning process. The coalition wishes to work on a voluntary basis with landowners to improve the existing use of trails, and to develop new trails. The coalition also wants to develop a code of trails ethics in order to improve relations with landowners.

These meetings, of people with diverse interests, have been invaluable for improving and increasing the responsible recreational use of private and public lands in the Bethel area. Please come if you want to participate.

For further information please call 824-3806.

SKI FESTIVAL THANKS

To the Editor:

I would like to thank the volunteers and area businesses who helped make the sixth annual L.L. Bean Cross Country Ski Festival and Flying Moose Classic ski race successful events. The generosity in the Bethel community created a great weekend of skiing for festival participants, despite Maine's first blizzard of 1995.

I particularly would like to acknowledge the Herculean efforts of trail groomers Mike Cooper, Scott Braman, Howie Bailey, Dan Smith and Mac Davis for their long hours of grooming throughout the storm. They did a fantastic job.

A video, "Anchor of the Soul," which provided insights into the African-American experience in Maine from slavery to the present, was shown at the February monthly meeting of the Bethel Historical Society as part of the annual historical film night.

Prior to the showing of the film, society director Stanley R. Howe provided a discussion of some of the African-Americans who were residents of Oxford County in the 19th century.

During the business portion of the meeting, treasurer Roger Conant, who presided in the absence of the president, vice-president and secretary, announced that the next meeting would be held on March 2 and feature the annual oral history night. Heritage Day was announced for Feb. 18. It was reported that the Richardson Lakes book editing is now nearing completion and that the next stage, reviewing some 300 photographs and developing captions, would be underway soon. The "Acquisition of the Month" was a copy of the fourth and latest edition of "The Indians of Maine: A Bibliographic Guide," gift of society director Stanley R. Howe.

Following the film, Persis Post, head of the society's Special Projects Committee, announced the refreshments for the evening.

LOOKING BACK

10 years ago: The former Concord's Guest House (now Holiday House) on Main Street was repurchased by new owner Sheila Miller with Tom and Micky Acousli as managers. Mark Boche, popular ranger of the Evans Notch Ranger District, announced he had accepted a position on the U.S. Forest Service staff in Washington, D.C. Birth: Elvira Buzard. Deaths: Walden Ryder, Charles Hamilton.

20 years ago: Candidates for king and queen of the Telstar Regional High School Winter Carnival were: Scott Holt, Levi Brown, Doug Brooks, Bud Farrar, Ricky Farnum, Kendra Keniston, Juanita Holt, Cathy Fiske, Rodin Doven, and Tanya Newell. The Telstar Regional High School football team was Mountain Valley Conference champions for the third year in a row. Birth: Tracy Bacheelder. Deaths: Wabbe Merrill, Arthur Luce.

30 years ago: By popular vote, Helen Glover was selected Queen of the Andover Winter Carnival. Albert Glover was hired by the Bethel School Department as a crossing guard at the intersection of Main and Middle streets. Births: Sheila Blake, Belinda Abbott, Marjorie Agnes Munro and John D. Foster. Deaths: Ellsworth Curtis, Margaret Alpers, Virginia Hanson, Harley Hart, Henry Durpin.

40 years ago: Stuart Martin sold his Red and White Store at the corner of Church and Main streets (now Keenan's) to Paul and Mary Shaw. The farm home of Jennie Claremont (formerly the home of her father, Abner Kimball, and presently the David Salway property) burned to the ground as a result of an overheated chimney. The main building of the Stowell Silk Spool Company in Bryant Pond was totally destroyed by fire. Births: Diana Smith, Bruce Merrill. Marriage: Patricia Tyler and Robert Hutchinson. Death: Geneva Tuell.

50 years ago: Due to the large snowbanks making Bethel's Main Street dangerously narrow, parking on the southerly side of the street between the Methodist Church and Broad Street was prohibited for the remainder of the winter. Vincent Witter of Gilead was promoted from Major to Lieutenant Colonel and made commander of the Third Battalion, 350th "Battle Mountain" Regiment with the Fifth Army in Italy. Ada Conner was installed as Worthy Matron and D. Grover Brooks as Worthy Patron of Purity Chapter, O.E.S. Birth: Daniel Grover. Death: George Tucker.

Water/ground Temps.

The Bethel Water District reports the following water and ground temperatures for Feb. 7.

Water	35 degrees
Ground
--3 feet	32 degrees
--4 feet	34 degrees
--5 feet	36 degrees
--6 feet	37 degrees

Ground temperatures are measured by sensors under Philbrook Street, where the surface of the ground is exposed and the subsurface is colder than in most other locations.

And at Bethel's sewage treatment plant, supervisor Rob Gundersen reports that during the current cold snap, the ground and water are not the only substances that are freezing.

Briefly

Former Bethel man in mine rescue

GREEN RIVER, WYO.--Wayne R. Davis of Green River, Wyo. was part of a Texas Gulf Soda Ash Rescue Team (the first outside team called) in last weekend's Friday-Sunday search for two men trapped in a Green River Basin area mine. The men were trapped 1600 feet underground at the Solvay Minerals' Irona mine. The former Bethel man and the team went into the mine after an earthquake destroyed one and one-half miles of shafts at the south end of the mine. Fifty-three men escaped the methane gas-filled area with only contusions and bruises caused by falling rocks. The first of the two missing men was found Saturday night and is recuperating in a local hospital. The second man, a 26-year-old school principal's son, was located Sunday morning, but collapsed while crawling to meet the rescuers and died several hours later at nearby hospital. Davis is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Davis of Bethel.

Ambulance meeting postponed

ALBANY--A public meeting scheduled for Sunday regarding ambulance service for Albany and Mason townships has been postponed until Feb. 12 at 2 p.m. at the Albany Town Hall. The meeting is to discuss a petition to reinstate the Stoneham and Bethel rescue services in Albany and Mason. Oxford County Commissioners voted on Jan. 17 to have PACE Ambulance Service of Norway take over coverage in the townships.

Road chief wants new truck

GREENWOOD--Road commissioner Alan Seames will ask Town Meeting voters to consider purchasing a new one-ton dump truck equipped with a nine-foot Fisher plow. The truck would cost $30,714. Seames said he would use it for plowing, hauling gravel, cold-patching potholes and rock breaking. The new truck would replace one that is 16 years old.

Gill pleads innocent, wants bail cut

SOUTH PARIS--Charles Gill, 58, who is charged with practicing psychology without a license pleaded innocent Monday to 17 counts against him. He is charged with 16 counts of unlawful practice of psychology, a misdemeanor, and one count of theft by deception, a felony. Gill's attorney, John Jenness, said Gill had never represented himself as a "psychiatrist" and had provided service to the Bethel Area Health Center, which employed him. Jenness asked that the $150,000 bail be reduced, and Superior Court Justice Thomas E. Delahanty set bail at $50,000 single or $25,000 double surety, or $12,500 cash.

Lawmakers to debate Sunday hunting

AUGUSTA--A bill to allow Sunday hunting in Maine will be debated by lawmakers this year. George Smith, executive director of the 14,000-member Sportsman's Alliance of Maine, said the Legislative debate will be divisive and Maine hunters are also divided on the issue. "As an organization, we support general hunting on Sunday," Smith said, "but we don't have any chance (such a bill will gain lawmaker approval). But the bill's sponsor, Rep. John Underwood, R-Oxford, thinks the proposal has a "fair chance." Underwood submitted the bill at the request of some members of the Lake Thompson Fish and Game Club, he said.

Maine Sens. protect their own salaries

WASHINGTON, D.C.--Maine Sens. Olympia Snowe and William Cohen joined the majority last week in voting to kill a proposal to include representatives' and senators' pay in across-the-board cuts to spending programs. The Maine senators voted to exempt their own salaries from any government spending cuts.

Stats say Maine is a safe place

Recently released statistics show Maine is still one of the safest states in the country. Maine was fourth from the bottom on a list of states' murder rates calculated by the Population Research Bureau. Only New Hampshire, North Dakota and Iowa had lower figures. "It's not a surprise at all," said Maine Public Safety spokesman Stephen McCausland. "We are typically in the bottom five as far as homicides and overall safety. In the national perspective, it just goes to show that Maine is an extremely safe state to live in. It has been and will continue to be." The District of Columbia topped the list with a murder rate of 66.5 per 100,000 people. Maine's murder rate was 2.4.

5-year-old brings gun to school

WASHINGTON--Police took a 5-year-old Maryland boy into custody last week after he brought a loaded semi-automatic handgun to his elementary school and showed it off to classmates. A teacher at the school confiscated the .38-caliber weapon. The boy was showing it to a group of students in the back of the classroom. The teacher told police the boy took the gun from his mother's dresser drawer. The mother was charged with two counts of allowing a minor access to firearms. If convicted she faces a $1,000 fine for the misdemeanor charges.

Rabid fox killed in Lisbon

LISBON--A fox shot on King Road in Lisbon last Wednesday was rabid, according to the Maine Department of Human Services. A dog that have been in contact with the fox bit a 12-year-old Lisbon boy Thursday. After the attack the dog was euthanized by its owners. It will also be tested for rabies. The dog did have a current rabies immunization. The fox had been sited acting strangely near the Town and Country Trailer Park. Officials believe the fox may have exposed several cats, dogs, porcupine and skunk to rabies. Lisbon pet owners have been advised to watch their animals closely for signs of unusual actions.

From the Bethel Police log:

Road warrior plays dodg' ems

On Feb. 1 at 4:53 p.m., a Gorham, N.H. man told police he'd been rear-ended by another car. The man told police he'd been traveling on Route 2 in West Bethel when he saw a car behind him tailgating. The man said he hit his brakes causing the vehicle behind him to hit him. When the car behind did not pull over after striking his vehicle, the man decided to pursue the vehicle and "run it off the road." The New Hampshire man rammed the other vehicle in the side, but the driver still did not pull over. Police told the man his actions in the incident were unwarranted and illegal. The man was annoyed at the police response, according to the report, and "saw no problem with his actions." Police warned him they would contact the owner of the other vehicle (the New Hampshire man had the license number) and ask if he wanted to press charges for reckless conduct with a motor vehicle. Damage to the New Hampshire man's car was estimated at $200 from the rear-ending, and $500 to the front fender from "ramming" the other car.

Tuesday, Feb. 7

At 11 a.m., PACE ambulance reported hitting debris on Route 2 resulting in a flat tire. Police checked the roadway, but found nothing.

Sunday, Feb. 5

At 2 p.m., Arthur B. Bonsat of West Bethel was summonsed for illegal attachment of license plate and displaying an invalid inspection sticker.

Saturday evening several vehicles in the Bethel village were towed, because they were in violation of the parking ban.

Saturday, Feb. 4

At 3:11 p.m., a Chase Road woman reported that someone had forced open a door to her trailer. All the pipes and wires in the residence were cut, the woman was unsure if anything had been taken.

At 5:40 p.m., a Mayville Road resident told police someone had tried to break into a home on the Sunday River Crossroad. The outside door was kicked in, the report said. Would-be burglars did not gain entrance because the inside door was chained.

At 7:55 p.m., a Paradise Road woman reported a vehicle with an apparently intoxicated driver had just gone off the road and onto her lawn. Police checked the area but did not locate the vehicle.

Donors

Senate, primarily because Senate districts are more than four times as large as House districts.

Below is a list of our area legislators' major contributors.

To avoid confusion, contributions from political action committees (PACs) are listed under their sponsoring organization. Some groups create feel-good names for their PACs. The Maine Trial Lawyers Association's PAC, for instance, is named "Citizens for Justice in Maine," and International Paper Co.'s PAC is dubbed "Voluntary Contributors for Better Government."

Senate

Hanover Republican Norman Ferguson spent $17,653. (Ferguson's district, No. 24, includes most of The Citizen's circulation area.)

Like Hanley, Ferguson received strong financial support from business. His largest contributors were the Professional Independent Insurance Agents of Maine ($1,050), Sunday River Ski Resort ($1,000), Oxford Speedway owner Robert Bahre ($1,000), and the Maine Chamber of Commerce ($1,000). He also received $500 each from Boise Cascade Co. and International Paper Co.

Other local businessmen and companies who backed Ferguson were Bethel Lumber mill owner Robert Chadbourne ($500), John Schiavi of Oxford ($500), South Paris auto dealer Kenneth Kilgore ($500), C.N. Brown oil company ($500), Norway restaurant owner Al LeClerc ($200), Bancroft Contracting ($200), United Timber Corp. of Dixfield ($300), West Peru retailer James Blaisdell ($200), and Rumford contractor William Porter ($200).

Others who made large contributions were Portland businessman Robert and Millicent Monks ($500), Bethel sand and gravel businessman Dennis Wilson ($500), the Maine Oil Dealers Association ($250), the Franchising PAC ($200), the Maine Medical Association ($200), the Maine Hospital Association ($200), and the Maine Motor Transport Association, a trucking company group ($250).

Ferguson also received contributions from the Maine Credit Union League ($150), the Maine Bankers Association ($100), the Merrill Company of Bethel ($100), Phillip Morris tobacco company ($100), and Blue Cross/Blue Shield of Maine ($100).

Paris Republican Dana Hanley spent $22,273. (Hanley's District, No. 70, includes West Paris.)

Dana Hanley won a second term in the Senate with strong local and state business support. Norway Advertiser-Democrat publisher Howard James gave Hanley his largest contribution, $1,287 worth of free newspaper advertising. Hanley's other big contributors were the National Rifle Association ($1,000), South Paris shoemaker Bruce & Nancy Hanley ($1,000) and Camden financial services company MBNA ($1,000).

Many other businesses and trade groups backed the conservative Hanley, including the trucking company group, the Maine Motor Transport Association ($850), International Paper Co. ($500), the Manufactured Housing Association of Maine ($500), LeClerc Management of Norway ($500), the Maine Oil Dealers Association ($250), the Maine Association of Community Banks ($200), the Maine Bankers Association ($200), the Franchising PAC ($200), Fleet Bank ($150), and Dunlap Insurance of Auburn ($200).

Health industry groups also made large contributions including the Maine Hospital Association ($300), the Maine Medical Association ($300), the Maine Dental Association ($300), the Maine Osteopathic Association ($300), the Maine Optometric Association ($100), and Blue Cross/Blue Shield of Maine ($100).

Local businessmen were also among Hanley's contributors, including Bridgton insurance agent Bruce Chalmers ($500), Norway pharmacist Larry Ketner ($300), Twin Town Homes president Hayward Luck of Oxford ($200), Oxford Homes president Peter & Karla Connell ($100), Schiavi Enterprises president John Schiavi of Oxford ($400), Sunday River president Leslie Otten ($500), radio station president Dick Gleason ($300), and C.N. Brown president Harold Jones ($200).

Hanley also received contributions from the Paris Farmers Union ($200), South Paris machine products company S.T.A.D.S. ($250), Al & Mary Alice Bancroft of Paris ($200), and Portland doctor Jeremy Morton ($250).

Hanley also received $225 from the Maine Republican Party, $1000 from the Maine Republican's Senate campaign committee, and $500 from the Oxford County Republican Committee.

House of Representatives

Bethel Republican Alvin Barth spent $3,062. (Barth's district, No. 65, includes much of The Citizen's circulation area.)

Unopposed, Barth received most of his large contributions from local business people. Top donors were Rangeley real estate agent Scott Morton ($200), and Susan Konkell of Portland ($500).

Each of the following people gave $100 to Barth's successful campaign for a third term: Rangeley Inn owner Fay Carpenter, Bethel dairy farmer Warren Hastings, Ellen Whitney of Bethel's Maine Line Products, Leon Favreau of Bethel Furniture Stock, Rangeley real estate agent Shelton Noyes, Bethel sand & gravel businessman Dennis Wilson, Harold and Joyce Jones of Norway, Sunday River president Leslie Otten, Bethel Inn owner Richard Rasor, Sunday River Inn owners Steve and Peggy Wight, West Paris mill owner Richard Penley, John Robinson of Oxford's Robinson Manufacturing, and Bethel lumber mill owner Robert Chadbourne.

Barth also received $100 from the Maine Real Estate Managers Association and the Ski Maine Association and $50 from Bowater paper company.

Rumford Republican Robert Cameron spent $9,092. (Cameron's district, No. 70, includes Woodstock and Milton Township.)

Cameron won a second term by defeating seven-term Democrat Phyllis Erwin by just 207 votes.

Cameron, who ousted Erwin by $2,700, received contributions from local business people, three paper companies and Republican Party groups.

His largest contributors were the Maine Republican Party ($600), Portland businessman Robert Monks and his wife Millicent ($500), and the Oxford County Republican Committee ($400).

Cameron also received $250 from International Paper Co., $200 from Scott Paper Co., $100 from Georgia Pacific Corp., and $250 from the Maine Chamber of Commerce.

Local contributors of $100 each were Rumford Center farmer David Kimball, Blaisdell's Variety of West Peru, Bethel sawmill owner Robert Chadbourne, the Rumford Cogeneration Co., Bartash Inc. of Rumford, Mrs. Carlton Champe of Rumford Center, Rumford contractor Paul Bolduc, Adley Auto Sales, Thomas Dickson of Rumford Center, and Bethel legislator Alvin Barth.

Cameron also received contributions from Rumford Center computer programmer Tom Powell ($200), Norway McDonald's owner Al LeClerc ($200), the Maine Pharmacy Association ($100), the Ski Maine Association ($100), American Frozen Foods Inc. of Connecticut ($100). Cameron also received $200 each from the campaigns of two fellow Republican representatives, Robert Spear of Nobleboro and James Donnelly of Presque Isle.

Norway Republican Tom Winsor spent $3,992. (Winsor's district, No. 68, includes Greenwood and West Paris.)

Winsor received his largest contributions from Portland businessman Robert Monks ($300), International Paper Co. ($250), the Maine Chamber of Commerce ($250), Boise Cascade ($200), Norway radio station owner Richard Gleason ($200), and Tania Hannon of California ($200).

He also received $200 from the Oxford County Republican Committee, $175 from the Hannibal Hamlin Republican Women's Club, and $100 from the Maine Republican Party.

Other contributors of $100 were Heyward Luck of Oxford, Peter Cornell of Norway, Richard Penley of West Paris, Daniel Craftee of Bridgton and Waterford contractor Steven Brown.

Winsor also received $150 from the Maine Oil Dealers Association, $100 from Eastport real estate broker Peter Leighton, and $108 of design work from the Oxford Group.

Boys' basketball

Carrabec 88, Telstar 64

Telstar High School lost 88-64 to Carrabec Friday. Todd Wing was game high scorer, with 22 for the Rebels.

Livermore Falls 69, Telstar 55

When Livermore Falls took a 21-point lead against Telstar in the final minutes of the third quarter, the Andies' coach benched his starting players and put in the second string. But the move nearly backfired, as the Rebels stormed back and reduced the deficit to five points with two minutes remaining. The Andies recovered and made a final stand, scoring 10 of the final 11 points to come out with a 69-55 win. Rebels Tony Buker and Jason Berry scored 12 points apiece, and Keith Stevens led rebounding with nine boards. Telstar's Todd Wing was benched, serving a one-game suspension for two technical fouls in his last game.

Gould 40, Eastgate 39

Gould beat Eastgate 40-39 Friday. Lanny Popoola was high scorer with 19 points.

Gould 54, Buckfield 38

Gould Academy's Ian Cleary was high scorer last week in the Huskies' 54-38 win Jan. 31 over Buckfield.

Berlin 48, TMS 19

Kier Simmons was Rebel high scorer in Telstar Middle Schools seventh-grade 48-19 loss to Berlin, N.H. on Feb. 1. "We fell behind 14-1 after one period," said coach Jeff Philbrick. "The kids hustled and trapped well on defense. We forced a lot of turnovers, but couldn't capitalize on them."

JV: TMS 33, Berlin 19

Telstar Middle School's JV squad beat Berlin, N.H. 33-19 on Jan. 30. Will Seames was high scorer with 13 points. Greg Koch and Nathan Cheever had six each. "We rotated well on defense and boxed out well," coach Philbrick said. "We worked the ball inside and finished off nicely. It was a terrific team effort. This was the best game we've played this year."

JV: Buckfield 60, Gould 53

Gould lost 60-53 in last week's JV game against Buckfield. Jacki Chow, Nate Garlick and Darren Wiggley each had 14 points.

Girls' basketball

Mt. Abram 84, Telstar 36

Telstar High School's varsity girls were overwhelmed by Mt. Abram last week losing 84-36 to the Roadrunners.

Beth Howe scored 15 points for the Rebels and Sarah Richardson had 14.

Alpine skiing

Gould at Saddleback

Gould men put six skiers in the top 25 at a recent slalom race at Saddleback Ski Area against local academies and colleges. Dana Drummond was ninth; Drew Drummond, 12th; Sasha Reusch, 15th; Parker Gray, 17th; Dan Leblanc, 23rd and Sher Ghermer, 25th. Other Huskie racers were Taylor Phillips, 38th; Yip Noguchi, 39th; Brennan Fentelberg, 46th; Jeremy Vail, 47th and Thomas Eckfeldt, 52nd. In the women's slalom race Clare Gray was 28th.

Cross Country

Stratton Mountain Junior Olympic Qualifier

Maggie Shaner of Gould Academy finished second in the 5-kilometer Junior Olympic Qualifier cross-country race at Stratton Mountain Cross Country Center on Jan. 29.

Huskie Chris Shaner was ninth in the 10-kilometer race. In the junior men's 10-kilometer race Christopher Sandberg was the top Gould skier in sixth, followed by Benjamin Kamelwicz, 18th; Jason Hays, 30th; Scott Sawyer, 65th and Quentin Stockwell, 73rd.

PARKS POSTER CONTEST

Children who enter Maine's fifth annual state park and historic site poster contest have the opportunity to win free use of state parks for themselves and their families according to Herb Hartman, director of the Maine Department of Conservation's Bureau of Parks and Recreation.

Just make a poster showing your favorite state park (K-8 theme) or show how our natural and cultural heritage is preserved through Maine's state parks and historic sites (9-12 theme) and submit your entry by Maine Statehood Day on March 15 to the Maine Bureau of Parks and Recreation, Hartman said.

Hartman said the poster contest increases public awareness of the state's recreational opportunities, state parks and historic sites provide and their educational and economic value to the state and local areas. Major state parks, which are not administered by the Department of Conservation, are not included in the contest.

Contest rules require all posters to be on 8 1/2 x 11 paper, recycled paper preferred, and any color illustration, artwork and lettering must be hand-drawn. Neatness and spelling count. The artist's name, grade, school, school address and telephone number must be on the back.

Entries will be judged in four divisions based on the grade level of the artist: K-2, 3-5, 6-8, and 9-12. Posters will be judged on originality, design, use of color and effectiveness in showing the theme.

Send entries to the Maine Bureau of Parks and Recreation, Station 22, Augusta, ME 04333. The first, second and third prizes will be awarded in each of the four age divisions.

First Prize: a family pass for free admission to all day-use areas at Maine state parks and historic sites this year and one week of free camping at a state park (excluding Backcountry Medical) and the backcountry.

Second Prize: a family pass for free admission to all day-use areas at Maine state parks and historic sites this year and one week of free camping in the state parks.

Third Prize: a family pass for free admission to all day-use areas at state parks and historic sites this year or one weekend of camping in the parks.

NOTES FROM

Telstar Guidance

During the week of March 6, over 150 Telstar junior and senior students will be excused from school to participate in the annual Career Exploration Week program. This unique program enables students to contact, coordinate and job shadow or work with employers of the SAD44 school district, Oxford County and work sites throughout Maine, New England, and the rest of the country.

At the completion of Career Week, many students will have discovered what careers are most interesting to them. Other students will have changed their minds and career goals. Some students will have even found summer jobs while others, having enhanced their decision-making skills, will pursue careers in college, vocational, business or military service.

In the next several weeks students will be contacting businesses to arrange their career exploration experiences.

A final project based on the student's Career Week experiences will be required of all students in order to receive credit. The Ten Best Career Week Projects will be selected and announced by early April.

SAD44 and the Telstar Regional High School staff and Guidance Office are grateful for area employers, businesses and individuals who take the time, interest and patience to help high school students become better individuals.

BOOKS • N • THINGS "Between the Lines"

Dear Friends & Neighbors,

Finally we have some snow! And with it of course, some very cold temperatures. This is the perfect time to "curl up by the fire with a good book." Just in: Lavyrie Spencer's new hardcover, "Home Song" and a new one for Tom Robbin's fans, "Half Asleep in Frog Pajamas."

Recent paperback releases: "Day After Tomorrow" by Allan Folsom a suspense filled thriller with lots of characters, both good and evil (with some question as to who the good guys are) A complex story with lots of characters who go racing all across Europe, pursuing & being pursued. You don't want to put it down! Or, how about a "Horsey" mystery? Bill Shoemaker is giving Dick Francis a run for his money with "Stalking Horse."

Come see us soon to find your "Old Favorite" author, or to find a new one!

I hope to see you soon!

TAXES
Strategy #6 - Review last-minute steps to cut your 1994 tax bill
Even though 1994 is history, there are still a few steps you can take to reduce your tax bill for 1994. Some possibilities:
• Make a contribution to an individual retirement account (IRA) if you're eligible for a 1994 deduction. Contribution deadline: April 17, 1995.
• If you are self-employed and had a Keogh retirement plan established before year-end, contribute to the plan any time up to the due date of your 1994 tax return, including extensions.
• If you have a business, set up and contribute to a simplified employee pension (SEP) before the due date of your 1994 return, including extensions.
• Check your records carefully for all the tax deductions you're entitled to take.

by Andrea Wing

Sandra Monzo's girls stopped by selling Girl Scout cookies this week. She has three girls:

Jamie, Tara and Erica, so I bought some from each one. They are all real cute kids and Ian, their brother, came with them to help them out.

Last Sunday, I spent part of the afternoon with Claribel Poland. I had a tape of Sarah that we watched and then we watched a tape of Claribel and Buster's 50th wedding anniversary. This tape was a few years old and it was interesting to see how everyone had changed.

One day this week I visited with Tim and Patty Poland. Tim broke his leg while re-roofing a home last week and will be laid up for quite a while. Tim is in quite a bit of pain right now, but hope he will be able to get around soon.

Pete Appleby and family brought Pete's dog Murdock down for a visit one evening this week. My cats were real anxious, so Pete kept him outside while Richard Wing went out to see Murdock.

There are several February birthdays: my brother, Vernon Poland will be 76 years young, JoAnna Poland, Jamie Monzo, Andrew Merrill, Dennis Poland, Sherry Poland, and Tracy Grover. Hope they all have a happy day. I'm sure I've missed some -- will add them next time.

Larry Billings, curator, Woodstock Historical Society, reports that he has been reviewing some classic literature. He says he enjoys learning about the past from great writers. They have a way of expressing themselves that is imaginative and unique. Mr. Billings has given some exhibits to the West Paris Historical Society. He understands they are trying to fix up their building and wishes them well. He saw the downstairs and thought it was very nice.

Tribute to George Hadden by Andrea Wing: George Hadden died suddenly this past week. It was a real shock as no one knew he was as active as he was right up to his death. I've known George for around 25 years and had worked in the next office where he worked. He was always good natured, helpful and a good listener and friend. Since his retirement I haven't seen him as much, but have visited with him at the post office and have called a few times at his and Thelma's home on Pioneer Street in West Paris. George was very knowledgeable about many things, and he was always glad to help you if he could. He was very honest. He will be missed by his family and friends and also by me. Other than family members, George was my favorite person.

Quote of the week: "I've learned that the only people to get even with are the friends who have helped you."

The selectmen held a meeting Tuesday evening. They worked on the upcoming Town

Report and writing out bids for winter road care for three years beginning in the 1995-96 season. These bids must be in by Feb. 14.

Laurie Brown, Ben and Arline Bernier attended a birthday party Tuesday at Market Square Health Care in honor of Roland Bernier's 77th birthday.

Wednesday, the 8th, is the 2nd annual "Sugar-Free" Day. Community members are urged to eat healthy foods and avoid sugary snacks and candy for the day. The American Dental Society recommends a diet of natural foods and fresh fruit for healthy teeth and gums.

The APT will meet Wednesday, Feb. 8, at 2:30 p.m. at the school. The fifth-sixth grade basketball team is hosting the CPS team for a game at 5:30 Wednesday evening.

A box social will be held at the AES on Saturday, the 11, at 6:30 p.m. in the cafeteria. Couples or pairs are invited to bring a picnic for the auctioned off to the highest bidder. You will dine with background music from the Big Band Era on linen-covered tables, surrounded by white lights -- sounds like a neat dinner out.

Congratulations to Lacey Gammont, Student of the Week, at AES, Jan. 23-27. Lacey is a second-grader.

The Snow Valley Sno-Goers are sponsoring a Polka Run on Saturday, Feb. 11. Registration will be held at the warming hut on I.T.S. 82 from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. The Polka Run will be held from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

There is a $5 entry fee. Three cash prizes will be awarded to the highest hands. The snowmobile club will be selling hot dogs, sodas and hot drinks at the clubhouse during the day.

Get well wishes to Mrs. Sandra Clements and to Mrs. Colleen Jaros. Congratulations to Jeff and Tracy Weston Rainey who are announcing the birth of their first child. Joshua Arnold was born on Jan. 27, weighing 7 lbs, 6 ozs. Joshua is the grandson of Susan and the late Edgar Rainey of Locke Mills. Maternal grandparents are Madeline and Ronald Wells.

Hoping Cupid remembers you on Valentines Day!

Bryant Pond

by Alice Hoyt

Notes from the Historical Society curator, Larry Billings: The owner of Mt. Maon's

Minerals in Bethel gave the society a very nice book on tourmaline. Much thanks. The society notes that author Nathaniel Hawthorne wrote of what he called "antique gentility." What a nice way to describe old ways and things. The society finds significant information to share with its members and the public. The next meeting will be on Sunday, Feb. 12.

Sympathy is extended to the family of Harriet Stowell.

Because of the storm, the 50th wedding anniversary open house for Floyd and Vangie Keniston will be held Feb. 11 from 2 to 4 p.m. at the Keniston home in Bryant Pond.

There will be no Daughters of Veterans meeting in February. The next meeting will be March 15.

The Woodstock Extension Group will meet Feb. 15 at Barbara Hathaway's with a potluck lunch and meeting at 10:30.

Steve Seames recently sent a certificate to the Historical Society. The society is an organization dealing with many subjects of interest to the public as a whole. The society's genealogy can be interesting; many family members have traced theirs.

Hugh Hathaway has returned home from Stephens Memorial Hospital.

Sunday dinner guests at Ken and Alice Hoyt's were Beatrice Farnum, JoAnn, David, Ray and Shawn Crockett. Crystal Chase called on her grandmother, Beatrice Farnum, Sunday on her way back to school.

Beatrice Farnum called on her sister, Ruth Dunham, Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Sylvia Swan and children, Sheri, Tami, and Christopher of Auburn, and Miss Kaity Gatchell of Portland were overnight visitors here Friday night. Mrs. Vicky Brown Myers spent Saturday morning visiting here with them. Mrs. Kassi Gatchell also came Saturday to take Kaity home after the children enjoyed sliding and skiing.

Mr. and Mrs. Craig Turner of Otisfield were callers Sunday afternoon.

If the ground hog crawled out of his winter nest to check the weather here, he could certainly see plenty of shadows, but Pennsylvanians are looking for an early spring. If the weather predictions for this weekend hold true, "Phil" will be more than glad to be back in his warm hole underground.

Jeremy Head and Sheri have moved into the late Christine Kimball home. Welcome to our neighborhood!

Bill and Phyllis Baneroff with the Ed Gardners of Waterford were in Lewiston Thursday to see the eye doctor.

East Stoneham

by Eleanor Nelson

The Stoneham Volunteer Firemen met for their monthly meeting on Tuesday evening at the Fire Station. They have once again started a Booster Club. There will be monthly drawings covering 20 weeks and then a supper is given, usually at the end of the 20 weeks. If you would like to have a ticket to this, please contact a fireman and they will get you in on this. It is a fun thing to do and a good money-maker for them.

Charles Fellebrown will be operating a new building and contracting company in East Stoneham, and it will be called CAF III Bldg. and Contracting.

We were sorry to learn of the passing of another friend of ours from Lovell -- Bob Littlefield. Our prayers and thoughts are with his wife Gladys and their family.

Several people in town have traded cars recently.

To you readers who wear eye glasses -- Do your glasses fog up when you come in from the cold outdoors? Try this: When you open the door, turn around and come in backwards and your glasses won't fog up. Try it -- it works. And if you missed my little money-saving bit of last year, try this: Use the mesh bag that your oranges or onions come in, put soap off the metal ends and use the mesh bag for a good scour pad.

It doesn't cost a thing and it doesn't splinter up like a chore girl, chore boy or Dolly Duzzit. Oh, once in a while, use an S.O.S. pad, but this is good for everyday use.

This week, the Thrift Shop of the East Stoneham Church donated some clothing to be sent to the victims of the California floods. This helps us and them. A big truck has been hired to take these donations to them.

Eric Nelson has returned to his college in Newton, Mass., after enjoying a vacation from his studies there. Albert Nelson Jr. went to Massachusetts recently on business and brought us back subs from the Sub-Villa in Saugus. There is absolutely none as good as Bob Santoro's subs from Saugus.

Don't forget the public supper at the Kezar Lake Grange Hall in North Lovell on Feb. 11, 5 to 7 p.m., sponsored by the Stoneham Knight Riders Snowmobile Club. Baked beans, ham, chop suey, cole slaw, rolls, pies and beverages are on the menu. Come on over.

West Paris

by Miriam Inman

The West Paris Historical Supper last Saturday night proved to be quite successful. Thanks to everyone involved.

Yesterday afternoon, we watched the Oxford Hills Junior High ski meet at Sunday River. Oxford Hills came in second behind Telstar, and Hebron finished third. Our grandson, Vernon, was one of the racers. Makes us think of years past!

On Monday, Feb. 14, there will be a Board of Management meeting of the Universalist Church at the home of Nick and Marta Clements.

And don't forget to be saving your rummage for the sale which will take place on Saturday, Feb. 18, 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the Goodwill Hall.

On Tuesday, Feb. 14, the E.B. Forbes Goodwill Group will meet with Martha Day at 10:30 a.m. There will be a 50 cent valentine snack lunch. Myrtle Bonney will assist the hostess.

Greenwood City

by Colista Morgan

Here it is the beginning of February, the season for car-tangling cold. It's the time of cries of blue jays but yet no sound of spring in their notes. Light is returning to our world. When the sun rolls up over the eastern mountain it looks like radiant gold. The lofty tree tops seem to brush the sky, as they gleam in these first rays.

From down on Big Pond came the voices and laughter of the ice fishermen. I heard them from my yard.

It was really a day to be out-of-doors in the fresh air with the sun striking down upon the snow.

From somewhere over the mountain the snowmobiles were grinding their way on a forest trail.

We have had so many days in which to hike, but I had to miss them this year.

Around my house I see tracks of different animals that visit during the dark hours.

A landscape is like a stage and must have its actors and its plays. Without the drama of living things it would be but a scene of silence and would weigh upon the heart. It is not enough to have the passing clouds, the rising or sinking of the sun behind the mountains. There must be visible life. A cliff is but a nakedness of stone against the sky, but when a hawk or other large bird and its shadow slant across it, the emptiness is gone. All is transformed. Nature is surprising, rich, full of beauty, cruelty, and truth.

My brother, Ernest, is again in a hospital in Lewiston. Albert and Marie Curtis took his mother, Rena, my sister Lucy and me to see him on Saturday. He was some better.

Dale and Marcia Mills from North Haven Island came to see Ernest on Sunday, then to see me.

The Holt family met at the farm on Sunday to celebrate David's birthday.

Dot Betts had her family with her on the weekend.

The T.T. Group met for dinner on Thursday, then spent the afternoon at the home of Doris Slattery.

Rena Curtis had eight of her family on Sunday.

Gilead

by Kathie Cole

Just when we hear that the ground hog didn't see his shadow and that spring is right around the corner, we have the biggest storm we've had all winter hit the area. We had approximately 18 inches of new snow in Gilead over the weekend. Our family stayed home and played games and watched T.V., while the weather raged on outside. It seemed good not to have to travel in the white stuff.

Last Monday evening, Alicia Taylor, Jeremy Smith, and I went to the movies in Berlin, Alicia and I went to see "Little Women." I had just finished reading the book, so it was perfect timing. I thought the movie followed the book quite closely. Jeremy chose to go see the comedy, "Dumb and Dumber." We all had a good time.

Two nights last week, Brittany, Bronson and I went ice skating on the Bethel Common. We took Brit-

I put out more food for the birds and squirrels, but it isn't disappearing very fast as we don't seem to have much for birds around right now. With so little snow, I guess they must be getting enough food in the wild.

I've already received several birthday cards, and I don't need to be reminded that I'm a year older tomorrow. I was born in February, along with all those other famous people like George Washington and Abraham Lincoln. A sister and a brother of mine were also born in February. With all the fighting between the Democrats and Republicans, I certainly wouldn't want the job of being the president of the United States. A lot more could be accomplished if they would make an effort to work together instead of cutting each other down.

Bryce and Barbara Yates of Sunday River visited us Thursday afternoon.

Friday afternoon, Peggy's daughter, Lorella Merrill of West Bethel, needed tests done at the hospital in Norway, so she took me along so that I could get some groceries and take care of other errands.

Peggy got calls from her daughters, Myrna White of Mesa, Ariz., and Kaye Blossey of Eustis, Fla., on Saturday morning. It was a cold 42 degrees in Mesa that morning, Myrna and husband were getting ready to go Jeeping.

Sunday afternoon, Peggy decided to try driving her car again, after being sick for so long. We went down to the Ames' Department Store, where we bought us an exercise bike so that we could do some much needed exercise in the comfort of our living room.

Bertha Benoit visited us after we returned home. She stayed for a light supper of tomato bisque, which I had been appointed to make.

Callers at the Lovejoys have been Harold Dingman from Lewiston and Marsha Baxter from Oxford.

Saturday, the Lovejoys picked up his aunt, Helena Bartlett, at the Bethel House. They did some shopping and then ended up at the home of Eleanor Emmons, on the Harrison Road, to help celebrate her 86th birthday. Eleanor and Helena are sisters and don't get together very often.

Faith Lovejoy attended a birthday party for Amanda Herrick of Norway on Saturday.

The children from the Mission Congo Church enjoyed a sliding and skiing party last Saturday.

There will be dances at West Paris Grange Hall on Feb. 4, 11, and 18, with music by the Richard Felt Orchestra.

Oxford Pomona Grange will meet at Oxford Grange Hall on Feb. 7. There will be a 6:30 supper preceding the meeting. The new password will be used.

I'd like to report that sister Peggy is gaining each day and has made a big improvement in the last week. Thanks again to all you good people out there for the phone calls and the get well cards. They all help when one is sick.

UNITED METHODIST WOMEN

Bethel United Methodist Women met on Thursday afternoon, Feb. 2, at the church dining room. The meeting was opened by president Virginia Keniston, who led members in repeating the Lord's Prayer. The secretary/treasurer gave reports, which were accepted as read. Thank yous were received from Evelyn Reed and Don and Arlene Brown.

Sarah Stevens, representing the Sunshine Committee, stated that cards had been sent to Jane Young, Georgia Brooks, Kenneth Brooks, Betty Ann Hastings, Gailey Wheeler, Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Hanscom, Kelly Bean, Jackie Schuesler and Harold Powell. Twenty-five sick calls were reported. Sarah also had recently talked with Jane Gamble and had learned that the family was getting along well, although Jane is facing a long recuperation period.

A collection of $6.65 was taken, four members paid their annual dues, and several brought in their World Bank money. Others may bring their donations to the next meeting.

Programs for the following year were distributed, as was the 1995 prayer list. Those not in attendance will receive their lists in the mail. Following discussion concerning the summer sale, it was voted to hold it Friday and Saturday, July 14 and 15.

Following the business session, 15 members and four guests enjoyed a presentation by Mary Ann Lord, who is working with Wycliffe Bible Translators in Peru, South America. These missionaries are working with natives in the Peruvian jungles and are in the process of translating the New Testament into a written language. Her exhibit and slide lecture were very interesting and enlightening. Mary Ann was assisted by her mother, Muriel Lord. They also brought news of Jane and Harriet Kneeland, formerly of Bethel. Harriet is also with Wycliffe and has been on a team which recently completed Bible translations for natives of a different language in another part of Peru.

Refreshments were served by Ginny Keniston and Sarah Stevens. The next meeting will be March 2, hosted by Lyndell Carter and Ethel Ward.

DIXFIELD ALUMNI SOUGHT

The Dixfield Alumni Association is asking for updated addresses of former classmates.

Parents, friends, brothers and sisters are asked to submit addresses of the following classes:

1931-2, 1954, 1955-56, 1957, 1959-60, 1961-62, 1963-64, 1965-66, 1967-68, 1969-70, 1971-72, 1973-74, 1975-76, 1977-78 and 1979.

The Alumni Association would like to have the addresses so that former classmates can be invited to the annual banquet on June 17, according to Cynthia Lane, alumni secretary.

Addresses can be sent to the Dixfield Alumni Association, P.O. Box 359, Dixfield, Maine, 04224; or to Cynthia Lane, 46 Pine Street, Dixfield, Maine, 04224.

Jackson-Silver Auxiliary

At their meeting on Feb. 2, Unit 68 began planning for a very busy schedule coming up.

Feb. 12 is the date for the Post to have their service to honor the memory of the Four Chaplains who, in an ecumenical demonstration of love for their fellow men, lost their lives when the troop ship Dorchester was sunk off the coast of Newfoundland in the early morning hours of Feb. 3, 1943. Under the direction of Rev. Rodney Hanscom, Chaplain of Post 68, members of the Post and Unit will take part in this service at the Locke Mills Church at 9 a.m.

The annual Oyster Stew supper will be at 6 p.m. on Feb. 16. This is a Post activity which is popular with the Legion family; all members of the Legion and Auxiliary are welcome to attend and may bring guests. However, as mentioned in the Post's newsletter, they need to know by Feb. 14 who will be attending so they know how to plan and purchase. Notify Earl by calling 875-2375. Chicken pie will be available for those who do not like oysters.

Oxford County Council Legion and Auxiliary will meet with the Locke Mills group at 7:30 p.m. on Feb. 21 for election of officers. Refreshments will be served following the meetings.

Another supper and dance will be sponsored by the Auxiliary on Feb. 28. A limited number of acts will appear between the supper and dance. These events were quite popular and well attended last summer and early fall, and they hope that those who enjoyed them so much then will return for this one. Another is planned for March 14, and others in the future. Proceeds will go toward a generator large enough for the Legion Hall, so that it can be a place in which a large number of people could be sheltered in case of a natural disaster.

Other events in March include the annual birthday supper which the Unit gives for the American Legion to mark their beginnings back in 1919. In April, there are plans for a tea to honor the Auxiliary on its 75 years and 75-year members will be especially honored.

During the Feb. 2 meeting, K. McAllister and Olive Risko reported on the Mid-winter Conference which they attended the weekend of Jan. 21-22 at Brunswick. The national organization is planning a dues increase beginning with the 1997 dues year. This could be a good time now, for those who are able, to think about beating this by taking advantage of the opportunity to become a paid-up-for-life member before any increase takes place.

The next regular meeting is scheduled for March 2, although any business or planning which is urgent will probably be done following the oyster stew supper.

BURT DEFREES TO NARRATE BOOK BY RICHARD KENT

Burt deFrees of Rumford Center is narrating books by Maine author and teacher Richard Kent for Showcase Audio Books in Bethel.

Kent's most recent novel, "The Mosquito Test," an adolescent sports fiction will be recorded, along with other works by Kent including a youth's soccer novel "Play On," which is set in a small New England papermill town.

In 1993, Kent was recognized as Maine Teacher of the Year by the Maine Teachers Association. Kent is a teacher at Mt. Valley High School in Rumford. The royalties from "The Mosquito Test" are being donated to the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation, the Jimmy Fund of the Dana Farber Cancer Institute and subgrants to publish audio editions to VOICES for the Blind in Bethel.

Narrator Burt deFrees is retired from teaching and theater. He currently owns and operates Grover Farm Antiques in Rumford Center. He also works as a personal care attendant in the Rumford area.

Catalogues of Showcase Audio Books will be available from VOICES for the Blind by Feb. 1.

MIKE BROWN REELECTED TO RUMFORD HOSPITAL BOARD

Leland "Mike" Brown of Bethel was recently reelected as a trustee of Rumford Community Hospital.

Brown will also serve as first vice chairman for the Rumford Community Home board. Elections were held at the recent Rumford Consolidated Healthservices Board of Trustees annual meeting. The healthservices board is the parent corporation for Rumford Community Hospital, the Rumford Community Home and the Rumford Community Family Health Center.

birthday...wrong, it was her 86th birthday. I am the one who is 87. Ha!

No show...so no Sno-Mobile oyster stew for the 11th. It is postponed till further notice. So said the Windy Valleys Sno-Mobile Club. See you later.

The Newry Mothers Club will meet Monday, Feb. 13, at 7:30 p.m. with a Valentine exchange. The 'snack committee' will be Karlene, Olive and Gil.

The "Newry Bowling Gang" members who went to the Oxford Lanes, Rumford, last week were: Betsy Clark, Karlene Bachelder, Gil Seeley, Sylvia Wight, Olive Anderson, and Jane. Rena Powers and Jim Anderson were guests. Betsy was high on the overall scores and Sylvia was high on the griples and smgles of the "Righties." Betsy had four spares, Karlene had two spares, Gil had one strike, and Olive had two spares. All went to lunch and did some shopping.

Pipes

than three hours Monday to stop all the leaks. Jenkins said. Monday evening another pipe in the industrial arts room started leaking, he said, but workers quickly contained it.

Work crews were still mopping up Tuesday, and students were kept home again.

Because the district's elementary students attended classes, Jenkins said, it's unlikely Telstar students will have to make up the missed time.

The timing of the pipe breaks was fortunate, Jenkins said.

"If there had been no one here when the leaking started then there probably would have been two or three inches on the floor," he said. Water was not pouring out of pipes, he said, but leaking steadily.

Teachers were able to get books and other classroom materials out of wet classrooms before they got soaked, Jenkins said.

"They went above and beyond the call of duty today," Jenkins said Monday. "There were a lot of people who were really quite wet."

Because of an apparent computer failure, the heating system problem went undetected until Monday morning.

The school has a computerized watch on the heating system, installed by the Honeywell Corp. of South Portland, Jenkins said. It appears a heat circulator malfunctioned, he said.

"We believe there was a heat sensor that was supposed to send a message to the computer that the temperature was less than it was supposed to be," Jenkins said. "It should have called Honeywell, who would notify us in return, but that didn't happen."

Honeywell workers have been at the school since Monday morning helping repair the system. The school has insurance, and adjusters were scheduled to be at the school Tuesday afternoon. It's also possible Honeywell will be held responsible for some of the damages, Jenkins said.

The dampened computers and typewriters were scheduled to be removed Tuesday afternoon and evaluated for damage. Jenkins estimated that about a dozen computers and six typewriters had been damaged by steam.

Heat had been restored to 90 percent of the building by Tuesday morning, Jenkins said.

He predicted the rest of the building would have heat by Tuesday afternoon, but as of press time Tuesday, he was unable to say if school would be in session Wednesday.

Pollution

brooks was cited as a common erosion problem in the area.

DEP Environmental Specialist and team leader Jim Jones said one role of the team might be to educate loggers about DEP regulations on cutting near waterways. Although fertilizer runoff from farming operations was also mentioned by team members, Jones said that individual homeowners may cause more problems than commercial farmers.

"The large farming operations test their soil. They only use as much fertilizer as their plants can utilize. Most homeowners don't test -- they just go to the hardware store and get fertilizer," he said.

Jones said education was again the key to solving the problem.

Team members saw runoff and erosion from home construction sites as another concern, and decided to look into having a DEP pamphlet on erosion control distributed with Bethel area building permits.

The subject of direct pollution sources was also discussed, with team members saying that what there might be was insignificant. It was noted that the two treatment plants in the area were in good working order and were not a pollution concern.

Jones said that at its April 6 meeting the team will look at the pollution causes in more detail, assess the risk of each, and prioritize the ones on which it will work.

Team members include Jones, Robert Gundersen of the Bethel Water District, David Bartlett of Sunday River Ski Resort, and Walter Hatch, Richard Hoeh, Tom Remington and Eric Schwarz of the Friends of the Androscoggin conservation/recreation organization.

National Guard.

According to Maloney, officials were holding discussions in Washington, D.C., on Monday about the "needs and mission" of the Massachusetts Air National Guard 104th Fighter Group, the unit which trains over Western Maine.

Maloney would not speculate on changes which might result from the discussions.

He said the Air National Guard may withdraw the request completely or may come back to the FAA with alterations to the proposal.

Maloney said it was unlikely that the FAA would hold more hearings if the proposal changes, since that hearing process is optional, but he suggested radical changes in the Air National Guard proposal might necessitate a new environmental impact statement and hearings.

SMALL BUSINESS SEMINAR

Community Concepts' Micro Enterprise Center will present a free workshop, "Starting Your Own Home-Based or Small Business," on Wednesday, Feb. 15, from 9 a.m. to noon, at the Bethel Inn Gibson Room.

Participants will learn what it takes to start a successfully small business, whether you have what it takes to be a successful small business owner, how to clarify your business idea, and the basics of a business plan including marketing.

Walter A. Roseman, business specialist for Community Concepts' Micro Enterprise Center, said, "It is a good time to become informed of the possibilities and realities of operating a small business. The Bethel area is full of talented people and the Bethel area is ripe for entrepreneurs. People in the western mountains are creating high quality jobs. Many-made specialty foods, fine arts, and innovative services. From my perspective working throughout western Maine, Bethel is the place to start a business."

Community Concepts is a private, nonprofit community action agency with a mission to "help people in need build opportunities for a better tomorrow." The Micro Enterprise Center offers to home-based, self-employed or family-owned business owners small business loans, workshops, technical assistance, and resource information.

Information and registration: 743-7716. Walk-ins are also welcome.

AMC advises:

Be prepared if you're going outdoors in the winter

Being safe in the outdoors in winter means being prepared for harsh, often life-threatening, weather for which the season is noted.

The Northeast's icy cliffs and snowy slopes lure ice climbers, snowshoers, and winter hikers to the backcountry during even the coldest months. While serious mishaps are infrequent, the dangers posed by exposure to the elements are real as evidenced by last winter's three cold-weather-related deaths in New Hampshire's Presidential Range.

But injury can often be prevented with proper preparation, according to the outdoor recreation specialists at the Appalachian Mountain Club (AMC).

"Think of your backpack as your survival kit," says Rob Burbank, public information coordinator for the AMC, a nonprofit conservation and recreation organization with more than 64,000 members.

"Any time you venture into the backcountry, you should wear or carry clothing that will keep you warm and dry," advises Burbank. "This will help you avoid hypothermia, which is the lowering of your body's core temperature. Left untreated, hypothermia can lead to death in a very short time," he cautions.

Items that every hiker should wear or carry when venturing into the backcountry in winter include plenty of extra warm clothes, such as wool sweaters or synthetic pile jackets and pants; a wool or synthetic pile hat that covers the ears; mittens; wind and rain gear; a bandanna; extra wool socks; polypropylene underwear, and waterproof, insulated boots. Other necessary items include a first aid kit; knife; whistle; guidebook; map and compass; waterproof matches; high-energy snacks; flashlight or headlamp with extra batteries; and two large, plastic trash bags to be used as emergency shelter.

The AMC also advises winter hikers to carry a winter-weight sleeping bag, one rated to zero degrees Fahrenheit or colder. Even if you don't intend to be out overnight, a warm, dry sleeping bag can be a lifesaver if you are lost or stranded.

Water, carried in an insulated container, is essential to preventing dehydration and guarding against hypothermia. The AMC recommends that you drink from two to four quarts of water per day.

Recognizing Hypothermia

The AMC participates in an average of 70 search and rescue missions each year, many of them involving cold injuries. "Virtually all cases of hypothermia or frostbite can be avoided if one is properly outfitted for cold weather, and both can be treated if symptoms are recognized promptly," says Bill Aughton, the AMC's Search and Rescue coordinator.

With hypothermia, the body loses heat faster than it can produce it. Exposure to cold, wind and moisture strains the body's energy reserves and leads to a lowering of the body's core temperature. In the early stages of hypothermia, a victim begins to lose coordination and the ability to make sound judgments. Further exposure leads to irrational behavior, staggering, falling, unconsciousness, and, ultimately, death.

"Hypothermia is easily avoided by wearing clothes that block the wind and keep you warm and dry," notes Aughton. "Trail mix, fruit, and other snacks should be eaten frequently to replenish energy," he advises. "In addition, dehydration speeds hypothermia, so it is essential to drink plenty of water."

If you recognize hypothermia in a member of your party, move the victim to shelter, remove wet clothes, and replace them with warm, dry garments. Try to keep the victim awake and feed him or her high-energy foods and warm liquids containing sugar, providing he or she is alert enough to hold the cup unaided. "Remember," Aughton says, "do not give anything by mouth to a person who is not fully conscious -- they'll choke."

Next, place the person in a pre-warmed sleeping bag to help speed rewarming. If the victim is unconscious, get him or her into some form of shelter and seek medical help immediately.

Treating Frostbite

Frostbite occurs when flesh is frozen. Aughton cautions that tissue damage can be severe if the condition is not treated promptly, and damage can worsen as a result of inappropriate treatment.

Frostbite may affect the skin, muscle, tendons, and, in severe cases, the bone. In minor cases, sometimes referred to as "frostnip," the affected skin may appear white and waxy and feel firm, but resilient.

If hands or feet are affected, rewarm them by placing them in armpits or croch. "Most importantly," says Aughton, "do not rub frostbite. The old, misguided folk 'remedy' that advocates rubbing snow on affected areas is a dangerous practice that will worsen tissue damage," he said.

In most severe cases of frostbite, the skin may appear gray, and the tissue beneath the skin may lose its resiliency and feel hard to the touch. In such cases, the victim should be promptly moved to a medical facility where the affected area can be carefully rewarmed under controlled conditions.

Prevention is the best defense against cold injuries, and the best prevention is to dress warmly and to stay dry. When venturing into the cold, one should dress in layers. This method helps to trap body heat and also makes it easy to cool down by removing layers. "Start with a base of long underwear made of polypropylene," said Aughton. "Cotton is not recommended because it holds moisture from perspiration next to the skin."

Wool or synthetic fleece shirts and sweaters are good insulating layers. These should be covered by a waterproof and windproof shell. In very cold weather, an insulated parka is a great addition. Gloves or mittens and warm, wool socks are essential components of any winter wardrobe.

A hat, too, is one of the more important items of clothing. More than 50 percent of body heat is lost through the head.

Comedian Robert Post at Gould

The Gould Academy Performing Arts Series will present a one-man performance by visual and verbal comedian Robert Post on Thursday, Feb. 9, at 7:30 p.m. in the Bingham Auditorium. Billed as "an off-the-wall evening of movement theatre," the show consists of several short sketches in which Post portrays a wide variety of characters, from Ace Wingspan, a fearless stunt pilot who takes us on an aerial joyride, to Marcia, a gifted adolescent ballerina, to Inspector Wesley Bloom of Scotland Yard.

Post blends dialects, sound effects, props, sets, and naturalistic acting with this trademark physical style of "body graphics." His arms, hands and elastic body transform into constantly changing imagery, overtaking the imagination, creating a new style of visual and verbal comedy. The glue that holds these diverse talents together is an engaging, honest, and relaxed performance style which guarantees Post's instantaneous rapport with his audience.

According to Post, two major influences sparked his childhood desire to go into show business; the sight of his grandmother spontaneously singing and dancing at any family occasion (including funerals), and the classic vaudeville, juggling, and specialty acts featured on the Ed Sullivan show in the 60s. As a student at Ohio State University, he began to study Absurdist Literature because, he said, he liked the sound of "absurd." The major force in his writing over the past 15 years has been his mentor and director, Tony Montenegro.

The key to Post's easy rapport with audiences is his informal style and the running dialogue in which he engages them between sketches. "Three or four times during the show, I'll come out and ramble. I'll talk about what I'm doing this week," he says.

Although Post's performance is hilariously absurd, there are moments of gravity, when the audience glimpses his more serious, socially conscious side. "I don't want to just be funny," he says. "I want to leave the audience with something to remember. I find it interesting to challenge the audience."

"My show is a dialogue with the audience. If they don't know what's going on, I'm in trouble...I want to have fun with the audience, and I want to weave in my personal feelings. I have a show that I feel reflects my views. I'm putting it all out on the line."

Tickets are $5 for adults and $3 for students and are available at the door the evening of the show. Information: 824-7700.

CANCER INFORMATION LINE

Central Maine Medical Center now a telephone information service for people affected by cancer.

Cynthia A. Rydholm Cancer Treatment Center has developed a Community Cancer Connection telephone service to provide information regarding cancer services and resources to patients and others. The service is being offered in cooperation with the American Cancer Society.

"The new Community Cancer Connection phone line is a volunteer service that supplies information about the resources available to people who have questions specific to cancer," said Diane C. Mulkey, the center's manager.

Mulkey said questions directed to the phone line range from "inquiries about support groups and temporary housing, to where to get wheelchairs and durable medical equipment, to how to find transportation to and from treatment." The phone service was not created to answer medical questions that should be directed to a physician. The phone number is 795-5566.

Obituaries

ERVIN DEMERS

Ervin Demers, 69, of Hollywood, Fla., and Bethel, died Jan. 27, 1995, in Hollywood Memorial Hospital.

Mr. Demers was born in Manchester, N.H., on March 27, 1925. He was the son of Cleo and Dorothy (Sutton) Demers.

He served in the U.S. Navy in World War II. He was an all-state basketball and baseball player for West High School, Manchester, N.H. He was also an NCAA basketball referee. An avid golfer, he spent winters in Florida and summers as golf ranger at the Bethel Inn and Country Club.

Survivors include a sister, Arlene; two brothers, Richard and Robert; and several nieces and nephews, all of New Hampshire.

A memorial service will be held in Manchester, N.H., in the spring. Memorial donations may be sent to the American Cancer Society.

CHRISTINE G. HANSCOM

Christine Grover Hanscom, 39, died Thursday, Feb. 2, 1995, at her residence after a long battle with cancer.

She was born in Lewiston on Aug. 26, 1955, daughter of Rupert and Ina (Ellingwood) Grover. She attended schools in Waterford and Bethel and graduated from Telstar Regional High School in 1973. She had worked in area stores and businesses, including the Bethel IGA, Western Maine Supply Co., Newton & Tebbels, Inc., and most recently at Grover Gundrilling in West Bethel. She also volunteered at many area activities. She had lived in West Bethel for 23 years coming there from Mason Township. She married David J. Hanscom on May 12, 1972.

Besides her husband, she is survived by a daughter, Rebecca D. Cole of North Windham; a son, David T. of West Bethel; her parents of Mason Township; two brothers, Rupert H. of Norway and Daniel T. of Mason Township; a sister, Elsie Aylward of Mason Township; and twin granddaughters, Meghan and Emma Cole.

Funeral services were held Monday, Feb. 6, at the West Bethel Union Church with the Rev. John Williams officiating. Interment will be at the Flat Road Cemetery in the spring. Contributions may be made to the Telstar Track Fund, c/o Telstar Boosters, Bethel, ME 04217. Arrangements were under the direction of the Greenleaf Funeral Home, Bethel.

CHARLES S. HASELTON

Charles S. Haselton, 86, husband of the late Hazel (Benjamin) Haselton, died Feb. 3, 1995, at a Bangor nursing center.

Mr. Haselton was born on Sept. 19, 1908, in Bethel, the son of Sherman J. and Ethel (Morse) Haselton. A graduate of Gould Academy, he later attended the University of Maine, where he was a member of Phi Mu Delta fraternity.

He was a retired employee of Sears, Roebuck & Co., and former member of the Joshua Davis Lodge 145 I.O.O.F. of Stonington and the Bangor Kiwanis Club.

Surviving are his daughter and son-in-law, Charlene and James Royal of Brewer; four grandchildren, and several great-grandchildren. He was predeceased by his first wife, Louise (Barbour) Haselton in 1974 and his sister Eugenia Haselton in 1986.

A spring graveside service will be held at Highland Cemetery, Carmel. Gifts in his memory may be made to a charity of one's choice.
